LEAVE YOUR CITY WALK INTO MOOD INDIGO

MUMBAI AND IIT BOMBAY, AS DRAWN FOR MOOD INDIGO '26

Everything in between has already been figured out

It starts the way good Decembers do, a bag packed at 2 AM, a train or flight you nearly missed and a group chat that hasn't gone quiet since you said yes

Then Mumbai, the air is heavier, the traffic louder, and past the Powai lake road the IIT Bombay gate opens onto Mood Indigo, one of India's oldest student festivals, started in 1971 by a few music obsessed students and named after a Duke Ellington record

Today it's students from thousands of colleges on one campus, you'll walk past a dance crew rehearsing in a corridor, sit in on a workshop you didn't plan to attend, lose your voice at a night show and eat dinner with people you met an hour ago

Then the city itself, a ferry to Elephanta, the Gateway at golden hour, sunset on Marine Drive, film star gates in Bandra and a last afternoon on Juhu Beach

We're the people who already worked out the boring bits, where you sleep, how you get in, how you get back at 1 AM and who's holding the plan, you bring the energy

WHY AS SCHEDULED

A FESTIVAL IS ONLY FOUR DAYS

The story starts before you enter the gates

You could do it yourself, find a room near Powai in December, coordinate everyone's arrivals, work out how to get back from campus at 1 AM and spend the trip doing admin, or come with us

AS SCHEDULED is built on a simple observation, the best parts of a trip are the people, the music, the city and the moments nobody planned, so we plan everything else and give you the rest back
